Giuliana Jacom was born with a rare muscle disorder that left her unable to walk or play sports. But she refused to let her disability define her. Through sheer determination and hard work, she became a world champion in wheelchair racing and an inspiration to millions.

Giuliana's story is a testament to the power of the human spirit. It is a reminder that anything is possible if you set your mind to it. No matter what challenges you face in life, never give up on your dreams.

Early Life

Giuliana Jacom was born in Italy in 1978. She was diagnosed with a rare muscle disorder called spinal muscular atrophy (SMA) at the age of two. SMA is a genetic disorder that affects the motor neurons in the spinal cord and brain. It causes muscle weakness and atrophy, which can lead to difficulty walking, talking, and breathing.

Giuliana's parents were told that she would never be able to walk or play sports. But they refused to accept this diagnosis. They enrolled her in physical therapy and encouraged her to participate in activities that would help her develop her strength and coordination.

Wheelchair Racing

At the age of 10, Giuliana began wheelchair racing. She quickly discovered that she had a natural talent for the sport. She was fast and determined, and she soon began winning races.

In 1996, Giuliana competed in the Paralympic Games in Atlanta. She won a gold medal in the 100-meter race and a silver medal in the 200-meter race. She also set a world record in the 100-meter race.

Giuliana continued to compete in wheelchair racing for many years. She won numerous medals at the Paralympic Games and world championships. She also set several world records.
